I am writing to urge you to require DuPont do more than cap the waste pile at the Edge Moor plant. As you no doubt are aware, dioxins and PCBs are extremely hazardous, and their presence near the state's most populated center alone should give you pause. Although I am not familiar with the Environmental Protection Agency rule referenced in Jeff Montgomery's News Journal article, it seems reasonable to hold DuPont to the national standard for dealing with this hazardous waste. Do not sacrifice the health and well-being of Delaware citizens for DuPont's ease or budget.

Thank you for your time and service.
